The absolute abolishment of the manufacture of heroin in this country was urged yesterday before the joint Untermyer has refused to surrender conducting an investigation into drug conditions in the state. At the same time Dr. Simon Baruch, the specialist who made the suggestion, declared that he believed it was possible to secure an absolute cure in the great majority of cases of drug addicts, providing they were treated properly, "I would gladly devote the rest of my life to treating drug addicts," said Dr. Baruch, "if I was given sufficient scope under the supervision of the government. With an absolute free

In advising that the manufacture of heroin be abolished Dr. Baruch said he was confident that such a course would result in the reduction of drug addicts by at least 90 per cent. The records, Dr. Baruch said, show that 90 per cent of drug addicts use heroin exclusively, while the remaining 10 per cent use morphine, cocaine or their najority of cases."
